Made Life in Wheeling a Burden. THE MERCURY CLIMBS UP TO 100

And People Devote Their Attention to Reeping Cool-No Serious Results Reported-The Day Ends With a Magnificent Electric Display and Cool Breezes Bring Relief.

Not since 1887 has the weather been as hot in Wheeling as it was yesterday. At 1 o'clock the mercury marked 100 in the shade at Schnepf's Opera House corner daug store, and it kept close to the hundred gauge till after sunset. Last night the temperature moderated, but still at 9 o'clock it was up to fair summer heat-84 degrees. It is a matter worthy of note that nearly all the holtest days in the past fourteen years have come on Sunday. Why this is so it is hard to suggest any reason, but the fact is so, and for this reason the ex-treme heat has not resulted in a great many cases of prostration.

'If this weather continues I'm going home.

The story of yesterday's oppressive lieat is well told by the following hourly bulletin furnished by Mr. Schnepf:

993/10

On Saturday the highest point reached was 97, which was as high as the mercury got at any time last year. That point has been reached three times this year. It is interesting to compare the temperature on other very hot days this season, and this can be done by examining the figures in the annexed table: June 16. June 17. June 18. July 23

Not since July 17, 1887, has the mercury reached 100 before. The hottest day known in Wheeling so far as the memory of the oldest inhabitant runs, was back in the mid-seventies when 105 was registered. Since July 18, 1878, Mr. Schnepf's record shows the following phenomenal hot waves:

Yesterday there was some air stirring, but it was very hot air. Even the breeze was superheated. The man with a boiled shirt on was an object of pity. and the lightest costume was the most comfortable.

There was a great rush to the park and the country, where by comparison the air seemed tolerable. Cooling bev-erages were in deniand, and the whole erages were in denfind, and the whole community suffered.

About six o'clock last evening a spanking wind sprang up and the streets were filled with dust for awhile. About 8 a shower began, and from that time till 12 o'clock there was the rarest and most magnificent display of electricity soon here in recent years. Light. and nost magnificent display of electricity seen here in recent years. Lightning flashed almost constantly in every quarter of the heavens. The rain was for a part of the time but a gentle shower, but at times it fell with such force as to cause the impression that hall was mingled with the drops.

The storm seemed severest to the east, but about 10 o'clock there was some terrific thunder and vivid lightning right in the city.

The air grew rapidly cooler after 9 o'clock, and the storm gave it a bracing effect that was very revivifying after the enervating heat of the day. Taken all in all it was a day that will not soon be forgotten by those who suffered in the city.

STANDING COMMITTEES

Appointed by the President-The Assembly Believes in Making a Good Donation at the Start, Rather Than Sending the Money in Driblets. There Will Be No Gambling Devices at the Big Labor Day Picnic.

Trades Assembly hall was almost deserted vesterday, not much more than a quorum having decided to brave the heat and closeness of the hall in preference to staying out in the open air. Most of the delegates were in their shirt sleeves and business was expedited as rapidly as possible. A communication was read reciting that the Northwood glass company intended to run its new works at Elwood City, Pa., with non-union labor, and that to prevent this design it might be a good idea to boycott several members of the firm. The communication was referred to the arbitration committee, which will endeavor to come to an

The boycott that was instituted some time ago on a young jeweler was reported as not having met with much success so far. The United States Baking company boycott is still on, and the committee which is looking after it reported that Stolzenbach, one of the big manufacturers in the company, had been seen, but that nothing satisfactory had yet been arrived at.

President Dobler announced the following standing committees: West Virginia Legislative committee—I. W. Imhoft, C. M. Donley, William O'Neill, F. M. Milligan, Charles Stein, Frank Wicard and Charles MoBride.

We are constrained by the force of circumstances to lay before you a maiter of vital importance, not along to us, but one which threatens, if successful, to undermine overy trade organization in the United Status and reduce us to a system of seridom, which was the lot of our forefathers in the middle ages. We are now engaged in a fight to the death, not only with a many-time millionative by the mane of A. Carnegto, but also with those bloodthirsty thugs and hirelings, the Finker tons, who have invaded our peaceful hones and laid low a number of true-hearted inside union is an analysis of the series of the s nestead, Pa., July 11, 1892. A motion was made that the Trades Assembly send $300 in response to the appeal, and an amendment was offered that $100 only be sent. There was a lengthy discussion, those in favor of sending the smaller amount pointing out that, while the Trades Assembly had over $900 in its treasury, the money might be needed later on. That the proposed picnic on Labor Day might result in a pecuniary failure on account of wet weather and other causes.

result in a pecuniary failure on account of wet weather and other causes. Further it was said, that in case more funds were needed the Assembly could send another hundred dollars, and then a hundred more, if necessary. Speakers on the other side said now was the time to send as much money as could be spared. The present struggle at Homestead between capital and labor was the decisive one, and meant the triumph or the ruin of trades unionism. It would be better to send $300, which might do more good now than a thousand later in the fight. This view obtained and the motion to donate $300 was CARRIED BY A BIG MAJORITY.

During the discussion a delegate from Garfield Assembly announced that his union would give a pionic on the 6th of August at the Fair grounds, and that the net proceeds would be forwarded to the Homestead strikers. It was also announced that a ball would be given on the fifth of August by Crescent Lodge, A. A. of I. and S. W., at Turner Hall, in aid of the strikers. The secretary was instructed to notify all the hall, in and of the strikers. The secre-tary was instructed to notify all the unions of the action of the assembly, and to request them to raise as much money as they could to send on to Homestead.

and to request them to raise as much meney as they could to send on to Homestead.

A proposition was made that a Wheeling lawyer be hired to ge to Fittsburgh to help defend the strikers accused of murder, but consideration was postponed until communication is had with the leaders in Homestead. One delegate said he had heard that the Carnegie interests had retained the best lawyers in Allegheny county, and it was thus impossible for the strikers to engage first class legal talont.

The report of the general committee on Labor day was read and approved. The committee reported that a delegate had offered to give the assembly half of the proceeds if he were allowed to run a wheel of fortune on the fair grounds the day of the picnic, but it had refused to grant him or any one else the privilege. When the report came up for adoption some one moved to amend and to permit the running of a wheel. The amendment was defeated and the report adopted as read.

A delegate reported, on information he considered nuthoritative, that the Ohio Valley China Company, of North Wheeling, had already engaged and was in the act of engaging more contract labor, imported from abroad. He said he understood that thirty men had been brought over from Europe under contract, contrary to law. The matter was referred to the West Virginia legislative committee, with instructions to employ an attorney, if the committee saw fit, to look up the evidence-and take legal proceedings, if necessary.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY. An Interesting Meeting Last Evening at the Second Presbyterian Church

The Christian Endeavor Association held an interesting meeting last evening at the Second Presbyterian church, with a fair-sized congregation. Ar rangements had been made for four speakers to be present, but only two participated. Mr. John R. Truxell delivered an entertaining talk on the association, which was followed by some interesting remarks by Rev. C. M. Alford on the International Christian Endeavor convention, held in the Madison Square Garden during the past month. He stated that very tow people in that city realized the size of the convention until it was in their midst. The rall-road, hotel and newspaper men all seemed to have no idea of the greatness of the convention, and ridiculed it until it had asserted its vast strength, and newspapers which first stated the attendance at 10,000 delegates soon ran their estimates up to 35,000, and everywhere in the two cities the badge of the association was seen on all sides, and everyone awakened to the fact of the magnitude of this great convention. He then gave an eloquent description of the scenes in the convention and the great speakers of national fame who were present, and the harmony of all rangements had been made for four

At the conclusion of Mr. Alford's address Miss Dr. Alice Williams announced that the state convention of the Christian Endeavor Association would be held next Tuesday in Parkersburg, opening at 7 p. m. that evening, and that all who could possibly go should be present, as an effort would be made to have the next state convention in this city in 1893, when they exconvention. tion in this city in 1893, when they ex-pected to have fully 1,000 delegates present.
